The mission of 9to5 is to build a movement to achieve economic justice, by engaging directly affected women to improve working conditions. 9to5’s vision is an economically just world where discrimination and poverty have been eliminated, where women’s work is recognized and valued, and where all women and their families thrive.

9to5 is one of the largest national membership-based organizations of working women in the U.S., creating a powerful force for change. Founded in 1973, 9to5 empowers women to organize, lead and win campaigns on family-friendly workplace policies, equal opportunity, and economic security issues.

We Value Work-Family Flexibility

You shouldn’t have to risk your job to take care of your family and you shouldn’t have to put your family at risk to keep your job. Yet millions are forced to do exactly that every day. Only 1 in 5 of the lowest-wage workers has access to paid sick days on the job and only 1 in 20 has access to paid family leave. More than half of all private sector workers have no family or medical leave protection. When leave is available, it is generally unpaid and therefore too costly to use.

What We Need

• Paid sick days for all workers to use for their own illness, to care for family members, or to seek safety from domestic violence.
• More accessible and affordable family and medical leave, including paid leave insurance which covers all diverse families.
• Equitable pay and benefits for part-time workers, and greater control over scheduling and hours.
• Reasonable job modifications for pregnant workers that will allow them to keep working while maintaining a healthy pregnancy.

What Will You Do To Support Work-Family Flexibility?

We Value Equal Opportunity

Women, on average, are still paid only 80 cents for every dollar earned by men. If we break that down, Black women make 63 cents, Native American women make 57 cents, andLatinas make 54 cents. Asian women come in at 87 cents and white women at 79 cents. Mothers, women with disabilities, immigrants, women with records, and members of the LGBTQ+ community are paid even less.

What We Need

• Protection against workplace discrimination based on sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, parental and marital status, unemployment status, criminal record, immigration status, and caregiving responsibilities.
• Stronger penalties against employers who violate existing equal pay laws, and fair pay laws that end gender and race discrimination.
• Equal opportunity policies that provide qualified women and people of color opportunities in employment, education, and business.
• Policies like Ban the Box that reduce discrimination against people with criminal records and comprehensive immigration reform with paths to citizenship.

QUESTION FOR THE CANDIDATE/ELECTED OFFICIAL:
What Policies Will You Support That Value Equal Opportunity?

We Value Family-Supporting Jobs and an End to Poverty

Two-thirds of workers who earn minimum wage or less are women. And women are overrepresented in low-wage jobs including part-time and temporary jobs with lower wages, less job security, and fewer or no benefits. The high costs of supporting a family—housing, food, medical care, child care, and transportation—put low-wage families at risk.

What We Need

• Strong safety net programs that support families moving from poverty toward economic security: accessible and affordable quality child care & health care, renters’ rights and assistance, affordable & accessible transportation, and an expanded earned income tax credit.
• Public assistance programs that emphasize living wage jobs, education, training, and support for those transitioning into the workforce.
• Elimination of the subminimum tipped wage, and increased minimum wage, adjusted annually for inflation.
• Unemployment insurance policies that protect low-wage workers, part-time and temporary workers, workers who lose jobs due to family care responsibilities, and the long-term unemployed.
